<UPDATE> Measures against the Spread of the Novel Coronavirus (as of March 31, 2020)

In preparation against the further spread of novel coronavirus COVID-19, Nabtesco Corporation announced today that it has decided to extend the validity period of the Nabtesco Group's policy* until April 12.

Nabtesco Corporation formulated the Nabtesco Group's policy on March 2 with a view to preventing the spread of the Novel Coronavirus both inside and outside the company, and ensuring the safety of employees. The period was set until April 3 and the Group has implemented the various measures in line with the policy until today.

At present, there is the worldwide tendency for the spread of the virus, and there is the ongoing need for the implementation of infection control measures, such as requests from the government to refrain from going out. Given the current situation, Nabtesco has decided to continue its measures until April 12.
